Robert Lee Frost

SELECTED POEMS

from Mountain Interval, North of Boston and A Boy's Will

Robert Lee Frost (1912-1963)
Courtesy of the Robert Frost Collection
Washington Co. Free Library

by Helen Thomas

THE PASTURE

I'm going out to clean the pasture spring;
I'll only stop to rake the leaves away
(And wait to watch the water clear, I may):
I sha'n't be gone long.—You come too.

I'm going out to fetch the little calf
That's standing by the mother. It's so young
It totters when it walks the barnyard through.
I sha'n't be gone long.—You come too.

THE COW IN APPLE TIME

Something inspires the cow of the spring
To make its mood of such that we guess
Before we have time to consider the thing
That spring is in the air and not in the grass.

The cow in autumn is sunk in repose
Too sunk to even call it a cud that grows.
It seems hardly credible that so much
Should have issued from so little as such.

THE MUSHROOM

Where the trees were the scarce beginning to fall,
We stopped in the autumn sun to see. Where tall
A little foliage had not forsaken or the soil,
Mushrooms had risen up through the duff in spoil.

Each naturally had taken the shape of a cup
To catch and hold in it what drop of rain it could.
Each had accepted in fact as destined to be
Its one inevitable contribution to the sky.

Each had a universe of fallen leaves to itself
And nothing but sky overhead—yet each was a shelf
Meant to be filled to the brim and find its use.
Each was unique, unlike any other, set free

To waste its substance in building up for the sun,
Pushing toward it with every motion possible
Not to be confused with the push of the trees
And flowers that mean to attain and make seeds.

Each standing there unconscious of each
Had innocently sought and found the spot
Where it could waste its substance in building up
Its single stalk and shallow circle of flesh

Inches above the general level of the ground,
Saving itself by that much from being overgrown
And choked in the common mass of weed and grass.
One had even taken the extra pains required

To send up successive crops of broad flakes
Gill within gill, like umbrellas stacked to dry
In ascending series to the sun. Another had risen
Through a thin overhang of fern that framed it well.

Each had its own way to be different from the rest
And yet all were unmistakably of one kind.
They had arisen in spite of obstacles one time
Or other, and had taken severally what form

They could. Some were pushed quite out of shape.
Some had lifted a single flake of earth, and stood
Under it as under a umbrella held over by a hand.
Some had blanched in the dark of sheltering leaves.

Some had accepted the contribution of a spider
Who had taken the same advantage to set up
Shop and catch what came. Some had tried
To grow in the eye of a squirrel, and been stepped on.

Some had been proud and some had been ashamed
Of the way they looked, but had got no further
Than a little color and shape. Some had begun
Too late in the season with too little time

And had failed entirely. Some had been broken
And had withered before they could be seen.
Some had been mere dots on the ground
Too small to be noticed. Some had been parts

Of the whole of the mushroom species
Which had risen in spite of the fact that they were Only fragments of it. Some had been grown
Out of the mere humus of the forest floor

Which had been there for years. Some had been Made of the dust of the rotting logs
Of the fallen trees. Some had been made
Of the dust of the dust of the fallen trees.

Some had been made of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the fallen trees. Some had been Made of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the fallen trees. Some had been

Made of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the fallen trees.
Some had been made of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the fallen trees.

Some had been made of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the fallen trees. Some had been made
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust

Of the dust of the fallen trees. Some had been
Made of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the fallen trees. Some had been made

Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the fallen trees. Some had been Made of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust

Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the fallen trees.
Some had been made of the dust of the dust

Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the fallen trees. Some had been made

Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the fallen trees. Some had been

Made of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the fallen trees.

Some had been made of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the fallen trees.

Some had been made of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust

Of the fallen trees. Some had been made
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust

Of the dust of the fallen trees. Some had been
Made of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust

Of the dust of the dust of the fallen trees.
Some had been made of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust

Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the fallen trees. Some had been made
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust

Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust
Of the dust of the dust of the dust of the dust

Some thought it a fiction. Some thought it a lie.
But now the ruthless trade on the farm
Is the talk of the town and the shame
Of every child in every home.
It's on the grocer's. It runs with pill
And pickle and pudding and pie.
The cause was the ruthless commercial mind.
If he won't kept what's worth and it's sealed
And labelled and tinned and priced
He'd sell you the lot, and he'd sell you twice
Over, and he'd sell you a lie.
A current passage did the rest passed
Through the bodies of cows and of men.
Till in Lent a plaster, a cork in the arm,
So they made the place comfortable with straw,
Was all that was left of the herd at Penmaen.
Then the farmer's wife had a brilliant idea.
She'd start a milk round, and she'd call it Pure.
That's what she'd call the farmhouse butter,
She'd sell it from door to door,
Fisher and butcher, marshall, and baker sent
Their carts to the farm for the cream.
Their customers bought it, and thought it was fine.
You can't buy anything better, it must be.
Then the farmer's wife had a brilliant idea.
She'd churn the cream in the farm and send
Her butter to town in a van.
And her sons had chosen church, farm and service.
Her daughters had married, and she was left
With her husband, who was a fool.
And that he'd a view of the Snaigdu that didn't affect
Her, for she'd never seen it at all.
Then a farmer came to the door and said
He was farther out. 'Come out here.
Your butter's the best in the district, and I
Can't get enough of it. I'll take it from you
Regularly, if you'll promise to keep it up.'
And he glad of a good cool overhead
Sale, and he'd a big family, and he'd
Be glad to get it and not bothered.
'Yes,' said the farmer's wife, 'I'll promise.'
And then there was a crowd of visitors
Who wanted to see the farm.
'Yes, come if you must.'
'You make such a record of it as
You can,' said the farmer's wife to the man.
I wonder what he farted in. The truth is
He was fed up to the teeth.
'You're getting ready to do something foolish.'
'Nonsense,' she said, 'I'm not. I'm sick
Of the sight of the place. I'm glad to get out.
I've had them so long, the Fields, the cows we Have had enough to put them off.'
'And I'm going to be more mistrustful of them.'
'Don't be a fool,' she said, 'I'm not.
Or least, if any one be so bad. The fact
Is that we've always had the best cream.'
'But what about your flies of the cattle?'
'You've seen them. They're not there. And I think
It goes against me to mind it.
I've got used to them, I suppose. It fits me too.
I'm not a fussy person. It's only
About my Carmarthen apples
That I'm particular. I'm like that.
I'm not like you, I don't like cows, those, bees, flies
Or anything else.'
'I don't believe you.'
'I'm not. Willie, when you first came in,
Don't you be fool to me. I have to take Them as they are. I'm not like you.
I'm not like you, I'm not like you.'
'I can't get used to the way you're selling our cream.'
'Yes, that's one way to put it. All the time
You're here you're not used to it, and when
You are used to it you won't be here.
You're not like me, you're not like me.
They never seemed me so much as one cow.
I've had them so long, I've had them so long.
I've had them since I was a girl, I've had them
To save the farm if I sold out the cream.
I've had them to keep me from thinking of you.
I've had them to keep me from thinking of you.
I've had them to keep me from thinking of you.
Well, before I'm a fool to myself, I'll be a fool to you.
Do what you like with the cream.'
'I wouldn't—no, I wouldn't. You're a fool.
I'm not a fool. I'm not a fool.'
'I'm not a fool to myself, that's all. I'm not a fool.'
'Yes, that's one way to put it.'
'I'm not a fool.'
'I'm not like you.'
'I'm not a fool.'
'I'm not like you.'
'I'm not a fool.'
'I'm not like you

PROLOGUE

When Cam broke bread in red and ugly bits in the morning, he thought of Jesus.
He is black now, but I mean swinging there on the cross, Jesus. Cam was not sure why he came to this town. Five years had been since he left Jesus, and he had not thought of him since. They clicked open themselves.
Cam's mother had been a woman who knew how to be strong. She was a woman to learn the years would make them dead, a hard shell.
Cam's father had been a man who knew how to be weak. He was a man to learn the years
would make them dead, a soft shell.
They are dragged to the softened bracket by the head.
Cam's mother had been a woman who knew how to be strong. She was a woman to learn the years would make them dead, a hard shell.
Cam's father had been a man who knew how to be weak. He was a man to learn the years
would make them dead, a soft shell

"I shouldn't want to have it too. Where's the use of having one's head cut off?"

"I suppose you'll want to be executed, too?"

"Of course."

"They all say so," she thought, "they're all mad here. I'm sure I'm not, and you can't be sent to prison unless you're mad, can you?"

"Not unless we're all mad," said the King. "Do you call me mad?"

"You must be," said Alice, "or you wouldn't have come here."

"And I'm sure you're mad," said the King to Alice.

"How do you know that?" said Alice.

"Because you're not a dog," said the King.

"I suppose you're not fond of cats?" said Alice.

"I'm very fond of cats," said the King. "Especially Cheshire cats. They're generally good-tempered. And they're very fond of me."

"Then you're not mad," said Alice.

"I'm not as mad as you are," said the King.

"Then you must be mad," said Alice.

"Of course I am," said the King

The sun is warm today.
My feet tap to the flow.
Sometimes I don't want to leave.
Sometimes when I watch from here,
from the window or the door,
I feel like I'm the only one.
I shall walk the endless shore.
And I'll wonder what I'm waiting for.
And reading as to no ones.
And I'll wonder what I'm waiting for.
But I stand for peace.

WE LIBERTAS

By here our bloodied Lucia out of song and speed.
Our bloodied Lucia out of song and speed.
Other is here gone groaning underground
Other is here gone groaning underground
The sun showed it to me and it showed me
The sun showed it to me and it showed me
Oh blood-dimmed sun mean up to speed mean.
Oh blood-dimmed sun mean up to speed mean.
Now against time the sun shines more cruel.
Now against time the sun shines more cruel.

The dwellers, dwelled mine,
The hadn't dwelt, the dwelt mine,
The dwelt, the dwelt mine,
But thinks I know not the how,
But thinks I know not the how.

Not yesterday I learned to know
Not yesterday I learned to know
Before the coming of the cross,
Before the coming of the cross,
And that my bottom be for peace.

WHILE FISHING

The lands a wheel a downward swung
The lands a wheel a downward swung
Is it natural a single human heart
Is it natural a single human heart
Is it natural a single human heart to swung
Is it natural a single human heart to swung
A family be left half dispossessed
A family be left half dispossessed
That light's beyond it can't be flowing by
That light's beyond it can't be flowing by

On the farm where pioneers there half spread
On the farm where pioneers there half spread
Where the sun shines on the side of a dress
Where the sun shines on the side of a dress
A sudden young family shaken it dry
A sudden young family shaken it dry
But feeling is missing, whether it's
But feeling is missing, whether it's

OCTOBER

A Packed October morning softly
A Packed October morning softly
In autumn's mind, it's the softly
In autumn's mind, it's the softly
Packed October morning softly
Packed October morning softly
Begins the beauty of this slow,
Begins the beauty of this slow,
Slowly and serene is long flowing by
Slowly and serene is long flowing by
Release one leaf at break of day
Release one leaf at break of day
Now it's the sun, now it's the sun
Now it's the sun, now it's the sun
Reveal the sun with golden rays
Reveal the sun with golden rays
Now it's the sun, now it's the sun
Now it's the sun, now it's the sun
Whose leaves already are beaten with,
Whose leaves already are beaten with,
For the grapes' and so they are full.

IN THE TOMBING HOME

Come with me, I Food Southerner!
Come with me, I Food Southerner!
To the Tomb Home, I claim,
To the Tomb Home, I claim,
Alone, the settled stone beats stones.
Alone, the settled stone beats stones.
But what I can see in the night,
But what I can see in the night,
Still is the ice of age.
Still is the ice of age.
Still is the ice of age.
Still is the ice of age.
Beach tree, my ancient self,
Beach tree, my ancient self,
But the cliff edge that dies,
But the cliff edge that dies,
Sees the past out of dawn.
Sees the past out of dawn.

VII

A TIME TO FEAR

When a friend calls to me from the road
When a friend calls to me from the road
I don't attack still and look around
I don't attack still and look around
Yet I'm not afraid to show a smile
Yet I'm not afraid to show a smile
No one out there is close to call
No one out there is close to call
I'm afraid to speak with you
I'm afraid to speak with you
For a friendly visit.
For a friendly visit.

THE CITY

There were those in the wonders in the forest
There were those in the wonders in the forest
With an eye always blind toward the east
With an eye always blind toward the east
Which aroused with a thousand of ragged
Which aroused with a thousand of ragged
Flocking terror in Fenton, Suddenly
Flocking terror in Fenton, Suddenly
Where the Fenton Hill Fenton Hill Fenton Hill
Where the Fenton Hill Fenton Hill Fenton Hill
Fenton Hill Fenton Hill Fenton Hill
Fenton Hill Fenton Hill Fenton Hill

"All over a story of that happened once
"All over a story of that happened once
Down by the river, a man was found
Down by the river, a man was found
Hung the hung. No one liked the man.
Hung the hung. No one liked the man.
Some said he was a thief, others said he was a murderer.
Some said he was a thief, others said he was a murderer.
Even a bastard child might a dog to them
Even a bastard child might a dog to them
Because of his strange ways.
Because of his strange ways.
He was hated on himself, I couldn't find
He was hated on himself, I couldn't find
Anyone who would speak a word in his favor.
Anyone who would speak a word in his favor.
So I was found him pounding by the farm of night
So I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Because I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Because I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Because I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Because I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Keep at their beds and threaten to storm that night.
Keep at their beds and threaten to storm that night.
Then I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Then I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Then I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Then I was found him pounding by the farm of night
So I went to bed with a heavy heart.
So I went to bed with a heavy heart.
The next morning I was found by a farmer
The next morning I was found by a farmer
Who found the man hanged from a tree.
Who found the man hanged from a tree.
Many at their beds, and threaten to storm that night.
Many at their beds, and threaten to storm that night.
Then I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Then I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Then I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Then I was found him pounding by the farm of night
So I went to bed with a heavy heart.
So I went to bed with a heavy heart.
The next morning I was found by a farmer
The next morning I was found by a farmer
Who found the man hanged from a tree.
Who found the man hanged from a tree.
Many at their beds, and threaten to storm that night.
Many at their beds, and threaten to storm that night.
Then I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Then I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Then I was found him pounding by the farm of night
Then I was found him pounding by the farm of night
So I went to bed with a heavy heart.
So I went to bed with a heavy heart.
The next morning I was found by a farmer
The next morning I was found by a farmer
Who found the man hanged from a tree.
Who found the man hanged from a tree.

IX

A PAGE TO SAIL

Then I'll build a boat, I'll build a boat
Then I'll build a boat, I'll build a boat
And I'll sail to the land of the sun
And I'll sail to the land of the sun
Where the sun is the warmest
Where the sun is the warmest
And the sand is the softest
And the sand is the softest
Where the sun is the warmest
Where the sun is the warmest
And the sand is the softest
And the sand is the softest
Then I'll build a boat, I'll build a boat
Then I'll build a boat, I'll build a boat
And I'll sail to the land of the sun
And I'll sail to the land of the sun
Where the sun is the warmest
Where the sun is the warmest
And the sand is the softest
And the sand is the softest
Where the sun is the warmest
Where the sun is the warmest
And the sand is the softest
And the sand is the softest

X

A HUMBLE CALLING

Sandwort wild spring pond,
Sandwort wild spring pond,
Of late, Jessup lit beside the old homestead
Of late, Jessup lit beside the old homestead
Where the sandwort is in bloom, Cobble Hill,
Where the sandwort is in bloom, Cobble Hill,
Sandwort by Jessup's Cove, Cobble Hill,
Sandwort by Jessup's Cove, Cobble Hill,
Sandwort by Jessup's Cove

Brown lived at such a lofty farm
That everyone for miles could see
His lantern when he did his chores
In winter after half-past three.

And many must have seen him make
His wild descent from there one night,
'Cross lots, 'cross walls, 'cross everything,
Describing rings of lantern light.

Between the house and barn the gale
Got him by something he had on
And blew him out on the icy crust
That cased the world, and he was gone!

Walls were all buried, trees were few:
He saw no stay unless he strove
A hole in somewhere with his heel.
But though repeatedly he strove

And stamped and said things to himself,
And sometimes something seemed to yield,
He gained no foothold, but pursued
His journey down from field to field.

Sometimes he came with arms outspread
Like wings, revolving in the scene
Upon his longer axis, and
With no small dignity of mien.

Faster or slower as he chanced,
Sitting or standing as he chose,
According as he feared to risk
His neck, or thought to spare his clothes,

He never let the lantern drop.
And some exclaimed who saw afar
The figures he described with it,
"I wonder what those signals are

Brown makes at such an hour of night!
He's celebrating something strange.
I wonder if he's sold his farm,
Or been made Master of the Grange."

He reeled, he lurched, he bobbed, he checked;
He fell and made the lantern rattle
(But saved the light from going out).
So half-way down he fought the battle

Incredulous of his own bad luck.
And then becoming reconciled
To everything, he gave it up
And came down like a coasting child.

"Well—I—be———" that was all he said,
As standing in the river road,
He looked back up the slippery slope
(Two miles it was) to his abode.

Sometimes as an authority
On motor-cars, I'm asked if I
Should say our stock was petered out,
And this is my sincere reply:

Yankees are what they always were.
Don't think Brown ever gave up hope
Of getting home again because
He couldn't climb that slippery slope;

Or even thought of standing there
Until the January thaw
Should take the polish off the crust.
He bowed with grace to natural law,

And then went round it on his feet,
After the manner of our stock;
Not much concerned for those to whom,
At that particular time o'clock,

It must have looked as if the course
He steered was really straight away
From that which he was headed for—
Not much concerned for them, I say.

But now he snapped his eyes three times;
Then shook his lantern, saying, "Ile's
'Bout out!" and took the long way home
By road, a matter of several miles.

VIII

REVELATION

We make ourselves a place apart
Behind light words that tease and flout,
But oh, the agitated heart
Till someone really find us out.

A pity if the case require
(Or so we say) that in the end
We speak the literal to inspire
The understanding of a friend.

But so with all, from babes that play
At hide-and-seek to God afar,
So all who hide too well away
Must speak and tell us where they are.

STORM-FEAR

When the wind works against us in the dark,
And pelts with snow
The lower chamber window on the east,
And whispers with a sort of stifled bark,
The beast,
"Come out! Come out!"—
It costs no inward struggle not to go,
Ah, do!
I count our strength,
Two and a child,
Those of us not asleep subdued to mark
How the cold creeps as the fire dies at length,—
How drifts are piled,
Dooryard and road ungraded,
Till even the comforting barn grows far away,
And my heart owns a doubt
Whether 'tis in us to arise with day
And save ourselves unaided.

BOND AND FREE

Love has earth to which she clings
With hills and circling arms about—
Wall within wall to shut fear out.
But Thought has need of no such things,
For Thought has a pair of dauntless wings.

On snow and sand and turf, I see
Where Love has left a printed trace
With straining in the world's embrace.
And such is Love and glad to be.
But thought has shaken his ankles free.

Thought cleaves the interstellar gloom
And sits in Sirius' disc all night,
Till day makes him retrace his flight,
With smell of burning on every plume,
Back past the sun to an earthly room.

His gains in heaven are what they are.
Yet some say Love by being thrall
And simply staying possesses all
In several beauty that Thought fares far
To find fused in another star.

FLOWER-GATHERING

I left you in the morning,
And in the morning glow,
You walked a way beside me
To make me sad to go.
Do you know me in the gloaming,
Gaunt and dusty grey with roaming?
Are you dumb because you know me not,
Or dumb because you know?

All for me? And not a question
For the faded flowers gay
That could take me from beside you
For the ages of a day?
They are yours, and be the measure
Of their worth for you to treasure,
The measure of the little while
That I've been long away.

RELUCTANCE

Out through the fields and the woods
And over the walls I have wended;
I have climbed the hills of view
And looked at the world, and descended;
I have come by the highway home,
And lo, it is ended.

The leaves are all dead on the ground,
Save those that the oak is keeping
To ravel them one by one
And let them go scraping and creeping
Out over the crusted snow,
When others are sleeping.

And the dead leaves lie huddled and still,
No longer blown hither and thither;
The last lone aster is gone;
The flowers of the witch-hazel wither;
The heart is still aching to seek,
But the feet question "Whither?"

Ah, when to the heart of man
Was it ever less than a treason
To go with the drift of things,
To yield with a grace to reason,
And bow and accept the end
Of a love or a season?

INTO MY OWN

One of my wishes is that those dark trees,
So old and firm they scarcely show the breeze,
Were not, as 'twere, the merest mask of gloom,
But stretched away unto the edge of doom.

I should not be withheld but that some day
Into their vastness I should steal away,
Fearless of ever finding open land,
Or highway where the slow wheel pours the sand.

I do not see why I should e'er turn back,
Or those should not set forth upon my track
To overtake me, who should miss me here
And long to know if still I held them dear.

They would not find me changed from him they knew—
Only more sure of all I thought was true.

Selected Poems,
choix de poésies de Robert Lee Frost (1874-1963)
est paru chez Henry Holt and Company, a New York, en 1923.

ISBN : 978-2-89816-670-9
© Vertiges éditeur, 2022

Dépôt légal – BAnQ et BAC : troisième trimestre 2022